Christmas is a family affair for the Lewises. For the past 22 years, their home has become a glowing mecca of holiday cheer with a high-tech twist. The Lewis Family Light Show is the only Christmas display in New England with an interactive mobile website that allows visitors to see which song will be playing next. Visitors can even change the playlist by voting for their favorite song. Check out the site here.

Like most of the displays on this list, the Lewis display takes a ton of time and effort to complete. The display typically takes more than 120 hours to set up and includes more than 100 extension cords to power all of the high-tech lights that "dance" in time to the music. This year, the Lewises have taken a page out of South Carolina Christmas aficionado Kevin Dunn's book and added "A Blue Christmas" to pay tribute to law enforcement officers.

The display begins on Friday, Nov., 23 at 5 p.m. and runs through Dec. 31. The Lewises light the lights Sunday through Thursday from 5 to 8:55 p.m., and Friday and Saturday nights from 5 to 9:25 p.m. You can listen to the 29 different Christmas songs by tuning your car radio to 106.9 FM.

The Lewis family accepts donations on behalf of The Autism Project and last year they raised $1,500. This year, there will be Autism-friendly Santa Claus visits -- check their Facebook page for dates and times.

Fun Fact: The Lewis family tries to pass out candy canes to the kids each night in December!
